THE SHARK-FISHERS AT KAWAIHAE ARE EXPECTING BIG RETURNS

C. F. Maxwell returned from Kawaihau today having been caught by the shark-fishers this morning when for the first time he has been superintending the operations of the Kawaihau Off Works & Fertilizer Company.

This is the shark-fishing concern organized by Capt. F. D. Walker, some time ago.

Mr. Maxwell says that only two species of sharks have come under his notice and that the commonest by far is the gray shark (sharkus vulgaris). This is the only member of the great shark family which is of any commercial value.

Fishing for the shark is conducted from a sloop with lines baited with goats or turtle. Though fish have been caught to keep the plant running steadily. A power launch is used as a tender to take the fish to shore after they have been caught.

The biggest fish which Maxwell has seen caught was eighteen feet in length but sharks of twenty-two feet in length have been caught by the company's employees.

Rough weather has of late hindered fishing operations but the coming month is expected to be a very busy one for it is in October that the shark run next into the off-shore waters near Kawaihau.

Maxwell will return to resume his work in about ten days.

The company has been giving its whole attention to oil and has done nothing in the fertilizer line as yet.

"We are turning out a magnificent oil," said Maxwell this morning. "It possesses a high value for medicinal purposes, especially in pulmonary affections. Besides being odorless it has a very agreeable flavor and I consider it a superior article to cod-liver oil. The method of deodorizing the oil was discovered by Captain Walker. Hitherto the raw product has resisted all efforts to render it palatable. I can see right away that the industry has a very promising future."

will be solemnized at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. J. Carden, on upper Fort street, have not been definitely arranged.

The service will be artistically simple and will be read at eight o'clock on the evening of November 29th.

The decorations will be evolved in white and green, and two little flower maidens will be included in the bridal party.

The bride will wear an effective gown of white and will carry a shower bouquet of white orchids and tulips.

The service will be followed by an informal reception, to which a limited number of cards will be issued.

The honeymoon will be spent in the country and later the couple will return to town to make their home in Honolulu.

Miss Ruby Case, whose portrait appears today, is one of the most beautiful of October brides, whose wedding to Mr. Edward Bates Blanchard will be solemnized on Monday evening at St. Clement's church at Punalou.

The services, which will be read by Reverend John Osborne at eight o'clock, will be witnessed only by the relatives and most intimate friends of the young couple.

The altar of the artistic chapel will be decorated with many drooping palms and quantities of La Marche roses, daisies and white carnations, many heavy maidenhair ferns also being used.

The bride will be attended by Mrs. Harold Hayselden, as matron of honor.

The bride will wear a Parisian robe of heavy white broadened satin made in the draped princess mode with a court train falling from the shoulders.

The gown will be severely simple, one side being veiled by a drapery of white chiffon, and the corsage being trimmed by motifs of Renaissance lace which have been family heirlooms for many years, and a small cluster of orange blossoms will be caught to one side.

The bridal bouquet will be a sheaf of long stemmed pink tipped bride's roses and white orchids, caught with streamers of white satin and tulle, which will be carried on one arm. The hat will be white silk faced with black velvet and covered by a huge white willow plume.

Mrs. Hayselden will wear an elaborate Paris gown which is one of the most beautiful lingerie creations ever brought to Honolulu.

It is made of Valenciennes and real baby Irish laces, which partly veil huge crush pink satin bows beneath the gown.

A chic turban of hand-made baby Irish lace over blush pink silk in a cabochon on one side of forty French pink roses will complete this stunning costume. A long double chain of Egyptian baby pink corals will be worn, and a muff bouquet carried, made entirely of duchesse roses and tulle.

Dr. Arthur Hodgins will attend Mr. Blanchard as best man, and the bride will be given away by Mr. A. L. C. Atkinson.

At the entrance of the bridal party, Lohengrin's Wedding March will be played on the organ, strains of Mendelssohn's Spring Song will be softly heard during the reading of the service, and at the conclusion Mendelssohn's Wedding March will burst forth.

After the service the young couple will motor to the home of the bride in Punalou where the latter will change into her traveling costume, a white flannel tailored suit and turban of sable velvet.

The honeymoon will be spent at the W. M. Giffard bungalow on Tantalus, and a week later Mr. Blanchard and his bride will return to the Alexander Young Hotel where they have secured a handsome suite, and where they will be at home after November 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hazleton entertained at a pretty dinner party last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Roberts at their beach home at Waikiki.

The dinner table was ablaze with fragrant clusters of violets and lace maidenhair.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Shaner, Mr. Dempsey and Mrs. and Mrs. Gerald Hazleton.

Mrs. Louis J. Warren was the guest of honor at two very delightful and informal thimble parties at which Mrs. J. T. Warren entertained on Thursday and Friday afternoons. Light refreshments were passed and about twenty friends were bidden on each occasion.

THE KEHOE-CHRISTIE NUPTIALS.

One of the prettiest of September weddings was that of Miss Kathryn Kehoe and Mr. Roy Benton Christie, which was solemnized on Friday morning, at the home of Hon. W. J. Robinson, circuit judge, on Thurston avenue.

Miss Kehoe is the daughter of Judge Kehoe of Goldfield, Nevada, and was an arriving passenger by steamer Sierra. Mr. Christie is the manager of the Honolulu Drug Company of this city. The ceremony took place at eleven o'clock a. m. and was performed by the Rev. Father Valentine, being witnessed by only intimate friends.

The decorations were most beautiful and effective, the color scheme being pink and white. The spacious parlors were converted into a fairy-land of foliage and blossoms. The bridal bower consisted of a canopy of delicate asparagus fern, interspersed with pink bride roses; large bows of pink tulle and clusters of bride roses forming a shower effect under which the bridal party stood. The grill-work was completely festooned with asparagus fern and pink roses interwoven with a most charming effect. Potted palms and fern were basked in profusion throughout the rooms. Large vases of white asters afforded a dainty contrast to the background
